

My Dearest Sneha,

In moments when the world seems a little too heavy, and your heart feels a touch too burdened, I want you to find solace in these words. Remember the melodies that we've shared, the ones that resonated with our laughter and whispered our secrets in their tunes. Let them be the background score to your day, lifting the corners of your lips into a smile that reaches your eyes.

Turn the pages of our memories, captured in photographs that speak a thousand loving words with just one glance. Each snapshot, is a testament to the joy we've created together. Close your eyes and feel my arms around you, my warmth seeping into your soul, reminding you that you're never truly alone.

Should the silence become too loud, pick up the phone and dial my number. Don't hesitate, not even for a second, because I am here, eagerly awaiting the chance to hear your voice. To talk to you is to walk through a garden of serenity, where each conversation plants seeds of happiness that bloom endlessly.

I love you, Sneha, with an intensity that transcends the ordinary. My desire for you is as vast as the night sky, dotted with stars of passion and dreams. I need you, as the earth needs the rain, to bring life and new beginnings. You are my special someone, a rare gem that has graced my life with true fortune.

No matter the hurdles, no matter the storms, my place is by your side, unwavering and steadfast. If the world dares to stand against you, know that I stand taller, a shield of support and love. So let the sadness wash away, for it has no home in the heart of someone as cherished as you.

With all the love in my heart,
Biraj
